

Fake Jobs and Money Making Schemes

WHEN:

Wednesday, Aug 9, 12:00 pm - 1:00 pm PT | 2:00 - 3:00 pm CT | 3:00 - 4:00 pm ET

WHERE:

Register in advance for this meeting: CLICK HERE
After registering, a confirmation email will be sent containing your individual link to join the meeting. Simultaneous interpreting in Spanish, Korean, and Mandarin provided. When registering you'll be asked to choose a language. For English simply choose 'none'

WHY:

Fake jobs and money making schemes are proliferating online, luring people who dream of starting their own businesses or who desperately need to earn quick cash. The pop up ads are everywhere, from Tik Tok, Instagram and WeChat to online job listing sites. Sometimes, it's an unexpected text or email: "You got the job! Work from home and earn top dollar!" Search online for "trading" or "investments," and you'll be bombarded with offers from self-proclaimed experts promising 20-30% returns in 1-3 months.

How do you know what's a real job or a legitimate investment opportunity and what's a scam? The Federal Trade Commission will guide you through the latest scams targeting all of us, especially those targeting specific ethnic groups, and discuss how it's fighting the scammers and winning cases — thanks to people reporting the scams.

WHO:

Kathleen Daffan, Assistant Director, Division of Marketing Practices, Federal Trade Commission

Rosario Mendez, Attorney, Consumer & Business Education, Federal Trade Commission

A story teller

CONTACT:

Sandy Close -- sclose@ethnicmediaservices.org
Jessica Martin -- jmartin@ethnicmediaservices.org

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

ETHNIC MEDIA
SERVICES

Promoting cross cultural communications